

D & A Building Services Spins off Waterproofing Division

LONGWOOD, Fla., January 20, 2011 — D & A Building Services Inc., one of the nation's largest Hispanic owned facility maintenance companies, has incorporated its waterproofing division now known as D & A Waterproofing Services Inc. According to D & A founder and President Al Sarabasa, Jr., the division was established in 2005 to meet client needs following the unprecedented building damage left by the 2004 hurricane season.

Heather Sarabasa, who managed the waterproofing division since 2005, has been named president/COO of the new entity. She has 13 years of industry experience and an Associate of Arts from Valencia Community College. Heather is a member of the Sealant Waterproofing and Restoration Institute and serves on the Ambassador Committee of Associated Builders & Contractors.
